DRS. JAMESON AND FLETCHER TES-TIFY IN CALDWELL CASE.

Progressive Paralysis of the Brain What They Term His Trouble -Street Car, Case Appealed.

The trial of D. Kyle Caldwell, in the federal court, continued yesterday, with witnesses for the defense on the stand, The sanity of the defendant was the point in question. Dr. Henry Jameson and Dr. W. B. Fletcher were put under oath and questioned as to their belief on this subject. They both testified that Caldwell is insane and that he is suffering with progressive paralysis of the brain. The evidence of insanity included a loss of memory and inability to appreciate differences in the size of objects. The defense wanted to show that the mental weakness began to develop four years ago, after the death of his wife. District Attorney Burke crossexamined the experts with a view to learning whether the defendant's mental aberration was such as to deprive him of his sense of right and wrong. A great number of hypothetical questions were put regarding which there was some sparring in securing answers. The medical habit of explaining why such opinions were held, would sometimes manifest itself and Judge Baker insisted that the witnesses should answer yes or no. The trial did not end last night and will be continued to-mor-

Wants a Guardian for Mrs. Hook. Yesterday morning Samuel T. Hook filed a petition in the Circuit Court for the appointment of a guardian for his mother, Amanda M. Hook, who was declared insane a week ago. The petition alleges that Mrs. Hook is incapable of managing her estate, which consists of considerable property. The records at the recorder's office show that last spring fourteen lots belonging to the Hook estate were sold for taxes due for the years 1892 and 1893. The certificates were assigned to Frank M. Hook, April 5, 1894. At the auditor's office it is said the effect of the assignment of the osition of original purchaser.

Asks Damages for Death of His Son. James W. Wright yesterday brought suit against the Lion Clothing Manufacturing Company to recover damages for the death of his son, Albert Wright. The wife of the plaintiff was employed by the defend-ant, and on Nov. 24, 1894, allowed her son -Albert to accompany her to its establish-ment, at No. 198 South Pennsylvania street. While playing on the third floor of the building the boy fell through the elevator shaft and was killed. Negligence on the part of the defendants is alleged in the

TRAVELERS ELECT OFFICERS.

Thomas E. Potter Continued as President of the R. C. T. Club.

There was a fair attendance last night at the regular meeting of the Republican Commercial Travelers' Club in the When Block. The election of officers for the coming year was held, resulting as follows: President, Thomas E. Potter, first vice president, Carey McPherson; second vice president, G. R. Hoach; third vice president, A. B. Conkle; secretary, T. P. Swain; treasurer, Lew Wallace Cooper; directors, Walter H. Nichols, W. H. Wright and Roy

Speeches were then called for from each of the newly elected officers. President Potter, who was in the chair during the year previous, said the good name of the club had been won by gallant conduct in the political affairs of the city, the county and the State. Throughout the United States, he said, there are voices telling about the good work done for sound business politics by this club.

"The Democratic victory of two years ago," he continued, "had hardly been announced before this club set about to gird up its loins, and said, "This is no Republican defeat—it is only a repulse. Let us organize, proclaim and defend the truth and the Republicans will soon regain their own; the people will regain prosperity and the land will again flow with milk and honey.' Your action stimulated and aroused the whole city; then the county felt the the whole city; then the county felt the impulse, and then it spread to the whole State organization. ## Will Do in an Emergency.

A few days ago George H. Spahr wanted to leave the city, and had timed himself so that by leaving home on a certain Collegeavenue car he would reach the depot in ample time to catch his train. The next car was due at the depot at the same time his train was due to leave, and it would have been almost impossible to make connection if he missed the first car. When he stepped out of his door, what was his consteruation to see the car he wanted to patch just in the act of leaving the next

EXPERTS ON INSANITY him standing in the middle of the block to take his chances with the later car. Mr. take his chances with the later car. Mr. Spahr did not like to take the chances of missing his train, so he conceived a plan for getting on the car which would have done credit to the mischievous inspiration of some small boy. Lying in front of him was a bowlder half as large as a man's head. He rolled it on the track in front of the car, and soon had the satisfaction of seeing the motorman twisting his brake handle to make a quick stop. When the car had come almost to a standstill Mr. Spahr kicked the bowlder off the track, and, ignoring the threatening gestures of the motorman, stepped on the rear platform of the car as it passed slowly by. To the conductor's remonstrance and threat to re-port him to the police Mr. Spahr laughingly

"It was a ground-hog case. I had to catch this car and did not have time to quibble with my conscience over such a trivial af-fair as placing a small bowlder on the

Shoppers Out in Great Numbers. There was an immense throng of Christmas buyers and sightseers on the downtown streets yesterday afternoon and last night. The big stores, and the smaller ones, too, for that matter, were packed with people, a majority of whom were women. Nearly all of the principal retail houses have made special decorations for the season, and the sight is well worth going to see. Hundreds of children were on the streets in the afternoon feasting their eyes on the pretty displays in the show windows. There were many representations of Santa Claus, and to make everything more realistic each one had an imitation of snow, for Santa Claus's name is always associated with snow and reindeers, but the weather, which was like that of a spring day, did not harmonize altogether with the show windows, and it looked without as if Santa would have to bring his snow with him if he wishes to give a genuine, bona fide performance, according

The book stores were wonderfully well patronized. Books are as popular as ever, it seems, as gifts. Each of the stores have a line of beautifully bound and prepared works, designed especially for Christmas presents. Wagonload after wagonload of toys for delivery left the several stores, and it is safe to say that nine out of every ten purchasers had given the directions: "Now wrap these things up securely so the children can't see what they are." The jewelry stores and fancy counters had their

Miss Hauck Got the Watch. There was a typical popular theater crowd at the Park, last night, to see the last production of "His Nibs, the Baron," a farce-comedy, which kept the audience in good humor from the beginning to the close. The house was filled. The management had offered a gold watch to the person holding a certain lucky number. Each m such tremendous majorities that this generation felt the earth quake under its Mr. Potter closed with an appeal for harmony in the trying times of an off year, when the opportunities for divisions over party preference develop. He urged that There was a rustle as everybody examined their tickets and many exclamations fol-lowed. The gallery was noisy and half a dozen boys declared they were the lucky ones. It developed, however, that Miss Lulu Hauck, living at No. 405 North Illinois street, was the rightful owner of the watch and when she stepped forward towards the stage she was met with deafening ap-plause. Some lad in the loft cried out 'speech," and another yelled "sing a song,' but Miss Hauck did neither, merely making a bow and returning to her seat.

Prof. Study's Enumeration Bill. Prof. J. N. Study, superintendent of the public schools of Richmond, says the bill for taking the school enumeration, which bears his name, and was indorsed for passage by the Legislature by the commit-tee of school men Friday, does not pro-vide that the school enrollment shall be the basis of the enumeration. He says it is exactly the reverse. The bill mentioned in the Journal was the one advocated by Superintendent Lafollette four years ago. which was defeated. The subject is one in which the school men over the State are taking a wide interest, and Superintendent Study is anxious that a wrong impression of his measure shall not gain cur-

Saw Pickpockets Instead of Snakes. The cry of "pickpocket" was raised yesterday afternoon in the crowd in front of the New York store. Great excitement was the result and everybody tightened their grips on their pockets. Phillip Mc-Cooley, who started the cry by yelling at the top of his voice that he had been robbed, gathered a crowd around him in the street and began to describe how it was done. Letectives McGuff and Wilson chanced along shortly afterward and found McCooley walking down Meridian street, declaring at every step that he had been robbed. He was placed under arrest for drunkenness, and when searched the money which he said was stolen was found in his

Caught a "Peeping Tom."

W. R. Henderson, forty years old, was arrested by patrolman Edward Wheeler yesterday and slated for loitering, because no other charge could be found against him. It is charged that Henderson has for sev-eral days concealed himself under a sidewalk grating in front of No. 97 North Del-aware street, from which place he has been wont to gaze at pedestrians walking above him. He was sent in as a "peeping Tom," but the mention of such an offense is not made in the laws of the State or city.

Democratic Clubs Will Banquet. The officers of the local Democratic clubs held a meeting, last night, in Room 7, at the Grand Hotel, to consider plans for a banquet on Jan. 8, Jackson's day. The room was crowded and a great deal of interest taken in the proposed feast. Committees were appointed to devise ways and means, and to prepare a programme. A number of speakers were talked about, but the selection of an orator was left to a committee

Two Inspectors Reinstated at His Request After Being Discharged.

A little "difference of opinion" between Congressman Bynum and Dr. E. H. Pritchard, the government meat inspector at this point, has just come to light. The Doctor has been compelled, however, for the time being, a least, to submit to the wish of the Congressman. The trouble all arose over the discharge of Quinn, Cleggy and Killian, three taggers. Dr. Pritchard discharged them and in his report to the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington, he stated as a cause that they were incompetent and undesirable. He stated at length his reasons for letting them go. Quinn and Killian evidently had a "pull" for after appealing to Congressman Bynum they were reinstated, contrary to the Doctor's wish. It is said the reinstatement is for the time being and that further inquiry into the matter will be made. Dr. Pritchard believes that Secretary Morton, of the Agricultural Department, is with him in the controversy. The kindly manner in which the Doctor received a Journal reporter last night did not coincide with the published statement that he would hold any reporter personally responsible who criticised his department and make statements regarding it. criticised his department and make statements regarding it.

"The affairs of my Department are always open," he said in reply to the first question, "and I am glad to see either private citizens or members of the press. There is little for me to say, further than that two of my men have been reinstated through the influence of Mr. Bynum after I had reported them unfit for the positions. Cleggy is still out. I will abide by the decision of the Secretary of course, but there is one thing I am determined to do and that is to run this department for the public benefit if I hold office but a day. I am sure, however, that Mr. Morton is of the same opinion as I am and that is that only sober, industrious men should be emonly sober, industrious men should be employed."
"Do you know anything of the report that nine car loads of hogs were recently condemned in Chicago after they had passed inspection at this point?"
